NUMB. 1749.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12. 1741

'T was a fine Saying of the great Prince of Conde, when he read ſome Libels of the Age in which he lived, and wherein many Things were aſcribed to him, of which he knew nothing, 'Theſe Raſcals make 'us act and ſpeak as they 'would do if in our Places.' One can ſcarce imagine Things different or more diſtant, than the Conduct of ſ of high Rank and the Notions which mean entertain of their Conduct. Hence comes that ation of Falſhood which ſpreads over all the Vul- nd fills their Minds with Affection for Perſons who them no more than a Captain of Huſſars his , and with Averſion for ſuch as applying all their all their Attention, to the Service of the People, fewer Opportunities, and perhaps think leſs of g the Multitude, than ſuch as need them do. nd only to caſt our Eyes on ſome licentious Pam- which have been lately publiſh'd, and which I to mention, in order to be convinced not only ey are exceſſively malicious, but that they are ndalouſly falſe. When a Man affirms that a in a high Station declared to him (whom per- e ſcarce honour'd with his Notice much leſs his ance) ſuch Things as could ſerve only to render eat Perſon odious as well as criminal, he may ex- elief from the Mob, but never from thoſe who dowed with Common Senſe; becauſe Reaſon ſhews Fact cannot be true. A Lie can never gain without having a Cloak of Probability.

ere are few People who conſider, that tho' it is not ry Man's Power to ſcrue himſelf into an Intimacy the Great, it is however in any Man's Power to them as familiarly as if they were the Boſom ants of all their Secrets. As any Poet may make ith any Hero he pleaſes in a Tragedy, ſo any al Scribbler may lay his Hands on the ſublimeſt ſter, and treat it in what manner he thinks fit, in ſleſh. So that we have no more Ground to ima- modern Stateſman truly repreſented by his co- rary Hiſtorian, than to judge the Macedonian rch ſuch a Heſtor as LEE deſcribes his Alexander. Figures are alike fantaſtick, and a Perſon muſt r as far gone as the Author in his Diſeaſe, who s to take his Dreams of one with whom he is y unacquainted, for a juſt Picture of his Qualities. n one muſt judge by Fancy, at leaſt let every judge by his own Fancy, and not frighten him- ith a Spectre of another's Imagination. There ething in this, mean as well as malicious; it is garly as it is baſe. Few Readers of Common ot either know, or eaſily may know, as much Matter as he who writes it; and therefore with Thinking, ſome ſmall Portion of Invention, and nicience, they may deceive themſelves, without Two Pence a Week for Lies of another Man's uld this Man write conformable to his Title three s, his Paper would be ruin'd; Common Senſe would nd a perfect Drug in any Popular Market. After tumbling and toſſing it, till they ſaw what it the Bulk of our vulgar Politicians would tell him xpoſ'd it to Sale, What doſt thou bring us this Stuff e have enough of it at home? The Parſon preaches Sundays; 'tis the Language of the Bench at Quar- ions; and the 'Squire talks to the ſame Tune at : Why, Common Senſe is the laſt Thing we would nothing goes down with us but what's uncommon. an knew this, better than he, and therefore tho' Senſe appears at the Top, 'tis neither Common at the Bottom, but a Mixture of ſtrain'd Rail- barbarous Language, and groſs Abuſe. This up the Spirit of the Paper, which is better receiv'd D'Anvers's Packet, becauſe it deals more in Satire, reſends leſs to Argument; conſequently cannot be y and particularly refuted; whence with the Party eem'd unanſwerable, by the ſame Figure in Speech licenſes our ſaying a drunken Man is not to be con- d. He who can reconcile himſelf to this Way ading, need never fear Bread, as long as Three of Canvas will hold a Painted Monſter, or One of Paper a Monſter in Print. He has nothing to invent, and then bawl ſtoutly, there will be to ſtare.

. Vinegar was for ſome Time the Darling of the Many. His Monſters were ſo abſolutely new, ſo indiſputably his own, that like Powell's Puppetſhow in the Days of the Spectator, it engroſs'd all Wonders; and every Creature who delighted in the Sports of the Amphitheatre, entertained themſelves duly with the modern Hercules thrice a Week. But, by degrees, from ſtrange it becomes common; and thoſe who in the Beginning were ſurprized, in the End became ſcandalized at his Abuſe. His Honeur, in the Compaſs of a few Weeks, grew ſo flagrantly a Creature of the Writer's Imagination, and the Writer ſhewed himſelf ſo incapable of Lying with even a tolerable Grace, told ſuch ſilly Stories, and ſtunn'd the World with ſuch ſtrain'd Quotations from the only Book he ever read, that all who pretended to Taſte, or had a Notion of Decorum, were afraid of countenancing ſo wretched a Libeller, from an Apprehenſion of ſharing in the Cenſure, and being eſteemed by all proper Judges as ſlender Criticks as he was an extravagant Author.

As low and poor as this Mode of Writing apparently is, yet ſome Imitators aroſe, and Capt. Vinegar had quickly a Poſſe of Under-Scribblers who joked after him, and by ſhewing they had no Manners wiſely fanſy'd the World would allow them ſome Wit. But with him theſe too are fallen into Contempt; and we now ſee whole Papers of hard Names thrown down without Reading, as well as without Approbation. This is a good Sign; when once People begin to think every Scrawler of a News-Paper has no Method of penetrating Cabinet, and coming at Secrets of State, they will ſoon proceed to more material Inquiries, perhaps bring in a Bill for reſtraining the Pretenders to Scribbling from peſtering the Publick, unleſs they can produce Certificates from Sages in Policy that they are properly qualified; have read Machiavel, Milton, and Sidney; have converſed with the Clerks of ſome Publick Offices, in order to pick up Grievances; and can readily point out Lorrain and Naples, even in a general Map of Europe. Perſons thus qualified may ſafely be admitted into the Fraternity of Modern Journaliſts, and in Time may become as eminent as their Neighbours therein. Provided always the preſent Adminiſtration continue in Power, and conſequently the Preſs continue in Freedom; for ſhould any modern Malecontent be for our Sins hoiſted into Authority, there would be an End at once of the old Trade of Libelling; and it would be equally rare to ſee any Thing well done by Men in Power, or well wrote by ſuch as were out, their Intrigue would quickly either ruin themſelves, or break the Spirits of the People.

Mankind have been long amuſed as in a Theatre, with Fable and Scenery, and all the time fancied things were real which they ſaw; they diſcovered a Humour of being diverted by Political Pickle-herrings, and the Town ſwarm'd with them as Bartholomew Fair did of old with their Brethren. But as theſe Diverſions cannot long be contain'd within any Bounds, ſo they quickly loſe their Spirit, and grow out of date. At this time we ſcarce know what the Paul's-Walkers were who diſturb'd our Anceſtors ſo much, and forc'd King James I. upon many a Proclamation; and in the ſame manner the Diſturbers of our Tranquility will be ſhrowded from the Knowledge of Poſterity. Fifty or ſixty Years hence, when Craftſmen are read in the Linings of Trunks and Bandboxes, their Contents will ſeem ſo ſtrange, that ſuch as out of Curioſity read them will wonder how they ever merited Attention, juſt as we ſtare at W. Prynne's formidable Volumes, and cannot comprehend how his Malice found Readers. All this however is very natural, juſt as it ſhould be, and may therefore be eaſily accounted for. Mr. D'Anvers may 'tis true diſpute it, but the Fate of his Volumes already prove the Truth of what I advance. You ſcarce ſee a Stall unadorn'd with his Fourteen Books in Twelves, neatly bound, gilt and letter'd, in hopes of tempting a Cuſtomer, but in vain.

It is not (as People commonly imagine) the Importance of Debates which either makes them laſting, or renders ſuch as engage in them eager and vehement. Whatever Men differ about, Paſſion quickly riſes high, and the more trivial the Cauſe, the more bitter ſometimes is the Conteſt. In proportion to the Intereſt People have in ſuch Quarrels, they continue or ſubſide, and when no farther Incouragement is given to be angry, Folks grow well pleaſed again, and ſo forget by degrees the Diſpute. In Queen Elizabeth's Time all Perſons of Rank had vaſt Crowds of Dependants, not unlike the Clients of Roman Senators, and theſe engaged warmly in all their Patrons Quarrels. We hear of no ſuch thing now, and a Man of Quality would be laugh'd at in this Age for affecting ſuch a Train as would have done him Honour in that. Thus the ill Cuſtoms of one Age wear out in another, and new ones bred from the peculiar Circumſtances of every Age ſucceed in their ſtead. This it is which gives me Hopes that ſome of the flagrant Miſchiefs which have ſome Years paſt diſturbed us will at length be thought and treated as intolerable, that future Generations may know nothing of them but from our Hiſtories.

This I am confident is both a juſt and ſober Wiſh, for if the Torrent of Licentiouſneſs were to roll on long with ſuch Force, it would bury all Diſtinctions, and we ſhould find ourſelves in thoſe unhappy Circumſtances which have ſometimes been fatal to our Anceſtors, when inſtead of greater Liberty, they have been led by ſome bold Men to the Loſs of all Liberty, and ſubjected to the tyrannical Power of a few of their Equals, as in the Barons Wars of old, and the Civil War in the laſt Century. The diſſeminating Principles of Anarchy, deriding all Governments, and queſtioning every Kind of Authority, is ſo baſe, ſo deſtructive, ſo abominable a Practice, that tho' at firſt ſome Party or other may eſteem it uſeful, yet all Parties will quickly concur in acknowledging its Guilt and directing its Puniſhment. There is a mighty Difference between a Man's reſiſting arbitrary Power, and acting againſt the Laws and Conſtitution of his Country; the one is juſt, and neceſſary of courſe, a noble and laudable Action; the other, the pure Effects of Ambition and Self-intereſt, and conſequently a mean and ſcandalous, an unjuſt and dangerous Conduct.

Since the Commencement of our Elections, ſome Writers have loſt not Reaſon only but Modeſty; and as they ſeem to be in danger of loſing all Hopes by that time they end, I am in pain for what they may be tempted to by ſo irretrievable a Diſappointment.

Graveſend, June 10. Paſs'd by the Judith, Holland, from Barbados.

Arrived

At Cowes, the Houghton, Abercrombie, from South Carolina.

LONDON, June 12.

Extract of a Letter from Falmouth, dated June 8.

'By the King George Packet, Capt. Uring, in nine Days from Lisbon, we have an Account, that on the 29th ult. his Majeſty's Ship the Fox, Capt. Edwards, came into that River, and reported, that the Day before he ſaw a Fleet of Spaniſh Men of War conſiſting of twelve Sail of large Ships, about 13 Leagues Weſt from the Rock of Lisbon, ſteering to the Southward, and that they all hoiſted Engliſh Colours, and had a Flag at the Mizen Topmaſt Head.

Admiral Haddock in the Somerſet of 80 Guns, with the St. Albans, Capt. Vincent, of 60 Guns, and the Lark of 50 Guns, with the Fleet of Ships from Turky, &c. bound for England, were off of Portmahone the 7th of May O. S. ſtanding for Gibraltar.

Capt. Ambroſe Commander of his Majeſty's Ship the Rupert arrived at Plymouth the 9th Inſtant, with a Spaniſh Privateer of St. Sebaſtian, which he took on the 31ſt of May, called the Biſcaya, of ten Carriage and two Swivel Guns, with 119 Men on board, her Complement being 140, but the Priſoners would not tell how many were killed in the Chace. The Captain and moſt of the Crew are French, and both Lieutenants Dutchmen, there not being above 50 Spaniards in the whole. This is the Privateer that took the Ship from Carolina in which Col. Braithwaite was murdered in cool Blood after the Action was over, and 'tis ſaid, that the French Officer who kill'd him is among the Priſoners. The Crew are a Parcel of deſperate, rugged Fellows, and have done more Miſchief to our Trade than any Privateer that has been fitted out from St. Sebaſtian.

The Ship from Carolina which we lately mention'd to have been taken by the Spaniards, proves to be the Suſanna, Partington, bound from South Carolina for Lisbon. She was taken the 2d of May by the Spaniſh Squadron off of the Berlings, and carried into Ferrol.

The Chicheſter, ——, which ſail'd with the laſt Convoy from Portſmouth for Lisbon, was ſeparated by bad Weather, and afterwards taken and carried into Vigo by a Spaniſh Privateer.

Yeſterday being the Anniverſary of his Majeſty's happy Acceſſion to the Throne, who then enter'd into the fifteenth Year of his Reign, the Morning was uſher'd in with Ringing of Bells: At One o'Clock the Park and Tower Guns were fir'd, and the Evening concluded with Bonfires, Illuminations, and all Publick Demonſtrations of Joy and Loyalty throughout the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, and Suburbs thereof on that Occaſion.

The ſame Day was held a Board of Admiralty, when their Lordſhips were pleaſed to appoint Capt. Mead, late Captain of the Sandwich, to be Captain of the Duke, a ſecond Rate of 90 Guns.

Likewiſe to appoint Capt. George Cockbourne of the Drake Sloop, to be Captain of the Gibraltar, a twenty-gun Ship.

xtract of a Letter from Madeira, May 30.

Hon. Lord Forreſter, Commander of the Bid- a 20 Gun Ship, on his Cruize from hence to aries, met with an outward bound Swediſh 800 Tons, mounted with 30 Guns, manned 30 Men, in ſight of Theneriffe, brought her found ſhe came laſt from Cadiz, and on Search d 30,000 Pieces of Eight, clandeſtinely ſhip- and concealed under the Bed of one they ſay is a mans but naturalized, and had lived two Years half in the Spaniſh Weſt Indies: He ſhew'd of Proof that they were his, or whoſe Pro- ey were; and the Swediſh Captain declared he d no Bill of Lading for the ſaid Money, and 'that he did not know of its being on board the Ship. 'On theſe Circumſtances, and by Council held by all 'the Factory here, his Lordſhip hath taken all the 'Money on board his Ship with the pretended French- 'man who had conceal'd it. He releaſed the Swede, 'and they both ſailed hence Yeſterday, ſaluting each 'other with their Guns.

Capt. Samuel Malbon, Commander of the Ship Carter, in his Letter of the 11th inſtant from Dover, writes to the following Effect; That he ſailed from Virginia the third of May with the Fleet; that the Southſea-caſtle and Wincheſter Men of War, together with the Maynard, Berry, the next Day took their Leave of them, bound to New-England, to convoy home two Maſtſhips, which he underſtood were not loaded; that he and the reſt were asked, but did not think well of going on ſo difficult a Coaſt with their Ships heavy loaden, tho' Summer-time; that nine of them kept Company all the Way over, viz. The Frederick, Loney, the John, Seabrook, the Sally, Lane, the Neptune, Spence, the Albermarle, Danzie, the Amy, Newham, the Betty, Brame (chartered by Mr. Forward) and the Hatley, Banks, and the Remainder, being ſix or ſeven, they left the ſecond Day after they came out; and that they met a Fleet of Ships off the Lizard, bound for Jamaica.

The Jenny, Ewll, from Topſham for Oporto, is taken by the Spaniſh Fleet, and carried into Vigo.

Laſt Wedneſday Se'nnight dy'd at Paris Charlotte of Heſſe Rhinfels, Second Ducheſs Dowager of Bourbon, who was born the 18th of Auguſt N.S. 1714. and marry'd to the Duke of Bourbon Conde in the 14th Year of her Age.

They are about erecting an Academy for the Belles Lettres at the City of Orleans, and when they have got the French King's Letters Patent for it, which they doubt not of ſoon obtaining, they will begin their Compoſitions with the Hiſtory of their own City.

Laſt Wedneſday dy'd at his Son's Houſe in Tower-ſtreet, Mr. Samuel Burch, one of the oldeſt Cornfactors belonging to Bear-key, being in the 82d Year of his Age. This was that hearty Proteſtant who ſome Years paſt promoted and got ſign'd by ſome hundred worthy Merchants and Tradeſmen of this City, a Petition to the Lord Mayor, Court of Aldermen and Common Council, to pray for a ſmall Part of the Ground where Cheapſide Conduit ſtood, to erect the Equeſtrian Statue of that Great and Glorious Prince King WILLIAM III. But Mr. Byrch the preſent Steward of Bedlam, then one of that Loyal Body, repreſenting that the erecting of that Statue would be a Nuiſance, the Common Council, out of their Great Care and Regard to prevent all Nuiſances within the ſaid City, rejected the Petition, and would not grant ſo ſmall a Requeſt, as a little Ground, to the Memory of a Prince who had done ſuch Great Things for the Nation in general, and in particular for the City they had the Honour to repreſent.

On Tueſday laſt ended the Scrutiny for Knight of the Shire for the County of Denbigh, between Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart. and John Myddelton of Chirk-Caſtle, Eſq; when the latter was return'd by a Majority of 100 Votes.

To the AUTHOR of the DAILY GAZETTEER.

There being a Proſe Verſion of HORACE's Odes now publiſhing in Numbers, it was expected that if another was publiſhed, it would excel this, or at leaſt equal it; but whether it does either, the Public may judge by comparing a few of the Odes, of which I now ſend you a Third.

The Verſion publiſhing in Numbers, and ſold by J. Davidſon.

BOOK I. ODE XIII.

WHEN you praiſe in my Preſence the Whiteneſs of Telephus's Neck, and commend the Beauty of his Arms; ah, Lydia! I'm in ſuch Anguiſh, that it is not in my Power to conceal it. I change Colour every Moment, my Mind is quite uneaſy, and by the Tears, that in ſpite of me run down my Cheeks, I ſufficiently diſcover the ſlow Fires wherewith I am conſum'd. I am filled with Indignation and Jealouſy, when heated with Wine they diſcolour your beautiful Shoulders, or when that rude young Lover with his Teeth makes a Mark on your Lips, that will not ſoon wear off. Believe me, Lydia, you have no Reaſon to expect that he will prove conſtant to you, who could ſo brutally wound a Mouth, which Venus hath perfumed with her pureſt Nectar. Thrice happy they, who are united with Ties that nothing can break, and whoſe Love continues till Death, without being interrupted or cool'd with Reproaches and Complaints.

The other Verſion.

BOOK I. ODE XIII.

To LYDIA.

He takes it ill, that Telephus a Rival ſhould be preferred to him by Lydia.

O Lydia, when you praiſe the Roſy Neck of Telephus, and his ſoft beautiful Arms, woe to me, my inflamed Liver ſwells with ſharp Bile.

Then neither my Mind, nor Colour, continue in a fixed State: and the Tear, by ſtealth, runs down my Cheeks, ſhewing how I quite pine away with ſlow Fires.

I burn, whether immoderate Chiding, occaſioned by Wine, hath deformed your white Shoulders, or the furious young Man hath imprinted a viſible Mark upon your Lips with his Tooth, you cannot, if you but ſufficiently liſten to me, hope that he will be conſtant, barbarouſly hurting your ſweet little Mouth, which Venus hath perfumed with the fifth Part of her Nectar.

O more than thrice happy are they, whom an uninterrupted Conjunction, in a married State, keeps together: And whom even Love, cooled by ill-natured Reproaches, will not be able to diſjoin before the Day of Death.

To all ſuch as are uſed (or hereafter have Occaſion) to take

DR. BATEMAN's Pectoral Drop, univerſally known, and juſtly famous for curing and immediately giving Relief in all Fevers, Agues, Rheumatiſm, Gout, Stone, Gravel, Aſthmas, Colds, Coughs, Pains in the Breaſt, Limbs, and Joints, publiſhed by Order of his Majeſty's Royal Grant of Letters Patent.

The PATENTEES here caution'd, from their Wholeſale Warehouſe in Bow Church-yard, London, do requeſt that the following Caution may be duly made;

That the Bottle they buy is ſeal'd with the Boar's Head, but theſe Words round it, BY THE KING'S PATENT, and none other is genuine.

Caution is abſolutely neceſſary to prevent being impoſed on by notorious and dangerous Counterfeits, which now ſwarm in many Streets about Town and the Royal Exchange.

We the Patentees and true Preparers of theſe and no other Drops, in Gratitude for the Univerſal and Reception they for many Years met with, and out of a Tenderneſs for the Health and Safety of thoſe, who may, for the future, be diſpoſed to uſing the ſame, think ourſelves bound to give this Caution to the World, that they may not be impoſed on by a dangerous Compoſition, inſtead of a ſafe, certain, and experienced Medicine: At the ſame Time declaring our Intention, of preparing and vending the ſame, with the utmoſt Care, Fidelity, and Regard to the Publick Welfare, as we have all along done, and at the ſame Rates: ſo that all People may be ſerved with it at their Old Warehouſes in Bow Church-yard, London, and in Northampton, as heretofore, where Accounts of its Virtues and Excellency may be had Gratis,

By their very Humble Servants, the Patentees,

B. Okell,
W. and Clare Dicey.

N.B. Remember theſe Words round the Seal, viz. BY THE KING's PATENT; for if the Bottle be not ſo ſealed, it is a Counterfeit. And alſo that there are not any other Directions in the Bill of Directions given with each Bottle than are

The only true Specifick Tincture For the TOOTH-ACH, and all Diſeaſes and Defects of the TEETH and GUMS whatever, which has given ſuch entire Satisfaction to the Nobility and Gentry for above Twenty Years paſt, by its wholly excelling all other Things formerly invented or lately contrived for ſuch Purpoſes.

SINCE one Drop of it gives infallible and inſtant Eaſe in the moſt tormenting Pain, nothing elſe will, and not only takes it away in a few Minutes, but abſolutely cures the TOOTH-ACH, ſo as certainly to prevent Return.

At only once uſing it makes the foulеſt Teeth and Gums white, aſſuredly faſtens thoſe that are loſe, and totally preſerves the Teeth from growing rotten, and thoſe already decay'd, from becoming worſe: It perfectly cures the Scurvy in the Gums, cauſing them to grow up to the Teeth again, eradicates the Stinking Breath, and alſo occaſions a Sweet Breath.

It is neither diſagreeable to the Smell or Taſte, but totally preſerves the Teeth and Gums from all Manner of Putrefaction, Corruption, and Putrefaction, keeps them found, pure, and in moſt beautiful Order, and may be depended upon as to the Character here given of it, literally, and in every Inſtance as Perſons innumerable have experienc'd.

But theſe inimitable Qualities, and ſolely inherent Virtues by which it has juſtly gain'd ſuch an univerſal and unparallel'd great character, have occaſion'd, as uſual in ſuch caſes, many frequent Endeavours to mimick it, ſome under the ſame and in the very Words of this Advertiſement, and others under other Names; be careful, therefore, to have the right, which may be infallibly relied upon, and which is to be had of the Author's Appointments, of the Gentlewoman, at the Blue-Poſts, in Haydon-Yard, in the Minories, London, at 2 s. a Bottle, with Directions.

Good Allowance to thoſe who take Quantities for Exportation.
